TWELFTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
JUNE 20, 2010

"There is neither Jew nor Greek;
there is neither slave nor free person;
there is not male and female;
for you are all one in Christ Jesus."
- Galatians 3:28

FOLLOW IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF CHRIST

The great fifty-day celebration of Easter has concluded, as have the feasts honoring the Holy Trinity and the Body and Blood of Christ. Last week we began a long stretch of Ordinary Time that will bring us to late November. Saint Paul tells us today that those who are baptized "have clothed yourselves with Christ." (Galatians 3:27) This scripture is echoed in the Church's baptism ritual when we sing, "You have put on Christ, in him you have been baptized." This message is inspiring and sobering at the same time, for in today's Gospel, we get to the heart of what it means to be clothed in Christ. The Lord tells us, "If anyone wishes to come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me." (Luke 9:23) For the next twenty-two weeks, we are called to take up the cross and, with Saint Luke as our guide, follow in the footsteps of Christ.

Next week, our Diocese will take up the Peter's Pence Collection, which provides the Holy Father with the assistance he needs to carry out his more important charitable works. The proceeds benefit the most disadvantaged: victims of war, oppression, and disasters. Through your generosity, with Pope Benedict, we can cast the love of Christ upon the world. We invite you to take one of the envelopes in the pews, prepare your offering, and return it next Sunday in the regular collection.

“From Coadjutor to Archbishop”

The seventh and last in a series on the office of the bishop by members of the Archdiocesan Theological Commission

The Archdiocese of Los Angeles is the latest of a select number of dioceses in the United States to receive a coadjutor bishop. The very title may sound unfamiliar to our ears and raise questions in our minds. What does the term “coadjutor” mean when attached to the title “bishop” or “archbishop”? Why is a coadjutor bishop appointed and what does he do? How is he selected? Who selects him?

The word “coadjutor” means “assistant” and, in accord with church law, a coadjutor bishop is an assistant bishop who is appointed with the right of succession. Where the principal or diocesan bishop is an archbishop, his coadjutor is called a coadjutor archbishop. Upon the retirement of the Ordinary, the coadjutor archbishop automatically becomes the archbishop.

Normally, a coadjutor bishop is appointed for one of two reasons: one, for the benefit of the bishop, whose health or abilities to administer the diocese are failing due to illness or advanced age, or two, for the benefit of the diocese that is anticipating a change of leadership in the office of bishop. In the case of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, the second of these reasons was the determining factor. Nearing retirement age and recognizing the size and complexity of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles—the largest and perhaps most complex diocese in the United States—Cardinal Mahony requested that the Holy Father appoint a coadjutor archbishop who, over a period of months, might become familiar with the archdiocese. This appointment, now made, will expedite a seamless and uninterrupted transition in the administration of the archdiocese.

Until he assumes the office of archbishop, the task of the coadjutor archbishop is to become familiar with the particular characteristics, needs and operations of the archdiocese, as well as its clergy, staff, and parishes. As he becomes more familiar with the archdiocese, he will begin to select the personnel who will best assist him in leadership.

Once the Holy Father agreed to the appointment of a coadjutor archbishop, the process of selection followed Canon 377 in church’s Code of Canon Law. The Apostolic Nuncio in Washington D.C. is the Holy Father’s representative to the government and to the bishops and dioceses of the United States. It was his task to consult confidentially with a large number of bishops and others in church leadership, including Cardinal Mahony, in order to construct a profile of the particular characteristics and needs of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, as well as a list of possible candidates from among the bishops of the United States. The dossier he created was forwarded to the Congregation for Bishops in Rome. From this dossier the members of the Congregation created a short list or “ternus” of three candidates and submitted this list to the Holy Father. In turn, the Holy Father made the final selection and then the appointment of the coadjutor and next archbishop for the Church of Los Angeles.

The liturgy for the reception of the coadjutor archbishop is also the liturgy for his reception as the next archbishop. In its simplest form this reception takes place through four distinct actions within the context of the Mass. After the homily, the current archbishop is formally asked to accept the appointment of a coadjutor. The Apostolic Letter or mandate of appointment from the Holy Father is then read aloud. Next, this letter is presented to the bishops and archdiocesan consultors who are present. Finally, the participating clergy and faithful welcome the coadjutor and next archbishop with their applause.
